SUMMARY OF THE JUNE MONTHLY MEETING

The DCC Monthly meeting was held on Monday 15th June in OLH.

Treasurer: There is still time to make a contribution to our annual collection and the Treasurer would appreciate those who have not yet returned the envelope to do so. DCC is grateful to all those who have already made a donation.

TT: DTT in conjunction with DLR have been working to improve the approach roads to the town. The new planters at the square about have greatly added much needed colour and enhanced this area. There is also an upgrade of the corners at the junction of Hyde Road/Castle Park Road and this work will be finished shortly. DTT remind everyone to help keep Dalkey tidy and litter free.

The next DCC meeting is Monday 13th July 2015.

DALKEY CASTLE & HERITAGE CENTRE

RIAI Short Listed:

The works to the combined Dalkey Castle and Town Hall buildings were shortlisted in the Royal Institute of Architects of Ireland 2015 Architecture Awards. The results, not known at the time of going to print, will be decided by public vote. Whatever way the vote goes, the short listing is a wonderful achievement in such a competitive market. We are delighted that the creativity and innovative re-imagining of a fourteenth century fortified town house/castle by Bob Hannan and Noelle Sweeney of Dún Laoghaire Rathdown County Council Architects Department has been so highly thought of. The foyer in the Castle and the Town Hall itself are now spaces to be proud of. The interpretation system in the Heritage Centre was designed and upgraded by a local company, Martello Media.

The final part of the project, the refurbishment and repair of sash windows in the Town Hall will be completed over the summer.

Summer of Heritage FREE tours:

A free guided tour of Dalkey Castle & Heritage Centre will be part of the DLR Summer of Heritage programme beginning on Monday June 29th. The free tours for locals begin each Monday and Thursday at 10.40am. This time is set aside for this bespoke tour, funded by DLRCoCo.

The tour will last at least one hour and will include an overview of all the new interpretation systems with its extensive bank of historical information. The guides will lead visitors around the Early Christian Church & Graveyard, upstairs into the fortified Town House and onto the battlements. From there, you will get magnificent views of the surrounding area right over to Howth. Back inside, you will be given a taster of the life and times of the writers included in the Writers' Gallery.

As part of the tour, visitors will get to experience the living history live performance from Deilg Inis Living History Theatre Company that has grown in popularity over the years. Guests will meet and have fun with characters from Dalkey's Tudor past. Numbers will be limited on each tour, so book early to avoid disappointment. After the tour, visitors can browse for more information at their leisure.

There are many more DLR sites open and events planned as part of the Summer of Heritage programme. Free booklets are available at our Reception or in Dalkey Library.

Dalkey Island Guided Tours on MP 3 players:

These are now in stock for tours to Dalkey Island at €7.95. Ken and Dave will have them on the ferry also.

Heritage Week: 22nd -30th August.

We will have free coin minting demonstrations on set days. We have two inspiring speakers on two evenings, Rob Goodbody and Peter Pearson. More details next month.

Dalkey Castle & Heritage Centre is currently open every day until 6.00pm (except closed on Tuesdays).

THE LORETO COMMUNION GARDEN

by Second Class, Loreto Primary School, Dalkey

The second class Loreto girls gathered in the First Communion Garden for a singsong and a prayer. We wanted to thank God for a very special week that we'll always remember; the week we made our First Holy Communion.

Way back on the 8th of October 2014 the garden story began. The teachers, moms and girls of the communion classes came together to make this special colourful space. We decided the Communion Garden would have white, pink and lilac colours to celebrate us!

Over the months, we weeded, planted bulbs, watered, deadheaded and secured the sweetpeas to bamboo. The garden gurus, Niamh Fitzsimons and Deirdre Breathnach, taught us the names of the bulbs we would plant; Cosmos, Candytuft, Allium, Sweetpea, Iris, Chrysanthemums, Nemesia, Tulips, Lavender, Osteospermum and Marguerites. We daisies are to remind them of us. Each one of us tied a pink ribbon to the tree in the garden to thank God for our Communion day.

Our Peaceful Garden has brought us joy because even if we are having a very busy day we can look outside our class window, see our garden and be happy. We take care of the garden and God takes care of us!

sketched and painted flowers to decorate the class windows and created a collage garden sign.

Now that we have made our First Communion and the Garden is complete, Mrs. Corkery wanted us to take a moment to celebrate our special week.

We gathered in the garden on Friday the 29th of May to sing 'Queen of the May', 'Go now in Peace' and 'Together'.

Two Marguerites were planted especially for our teachers Ms. Quinn and Ms. Howard. The white

Freedom Class Cruiseship entering Cork Harbour

CRUISE CONCERNS:

Amid much ongoing controversy, a planning application for a €18m single cruise-berth facility by the Dun Laoghaire Harbour Company (DLHC) was due to have been lodged to An Bord Pleanála in mid-June.

Should the application be granted permission, even larger visitors than the visit in May of the imposing, yet arguably elegant, cruise liner 'Queen Mary 2, could potentially see for example RCI's giant 154,000 tonnes Freedom' class Independence of the Seas almost occupy the harbour's centre.

Concerns surrounding the application have been raised by the boating fraternity, local residents and political representatives alike on the potential impacts posed by cruiseships on the historic Victorian harbour. While, others see the merits of boosting the local economy and that overall of the borough.

The contentious issue of the 435m long jetty incorporating a berth for cruiseships like the Freedom' class of 340m length overall (LOA) or even slightly longer ships has been confirmed by DLHC. The class are 38m wide with a 9m draught. Currently, deep-drafted cruiseships have to anchor off Dalkey shores requiring passengers to be tendered ashore to the Coal Harbour's cruise-landing pontoon.

Prior to DLHC's application to An Bord Pleanála, the Dublin Port Company lodged their €30m double cruise-berth terminal proposal also to the planning authority. It should be highlighted that while the capital may see the biggest cruiseships in the world with whopping 'Oasis' class of 225,000 tonnes, that does not easily dismiss how still considerably large the 'Freedom' class pose on Dun Laoghaire.

Freedom cruiseships with 4,375 passengers are the largest ever to visit Ireland and only call to Cobh Cruise Terminal in County Cork. In the meantime, the 3,600 passenger Royal Princess of 142,000 tonnes made a maiden call off Dun Laoghaire (see photo, last issue) on 12th May but cancelled a further two calls.

The same number of calls were also cancelled by the 137,000 tonnes MSC Splendida which, like the 'Royal', switched instead to docking in Dublin Port. DLHC expressed 'dismay' over the change of port having carried out preparations for an anticipated visit of up to 3,200 passengers.

MSC Cruises claimed the switch to Dublin Port was due to high-tides and an opportunity for guests to have extended shore-time. However, DLHC have confirmed that she is to finally make a debut ‘anchorage’ call in August of this year. Interestingly, she is 10m wider than the former Stena HSS Ferry of 40m.

Together, the cancellations have reduced Dun Laoghaire’s record cruise season to a total of 18 calls instead of the planned 22. This total could be further in doubt given Princess Cruises, operators of the ‘Royal’ whose original 9 scheduled calls is down to 6 for the rest of the season and potential impact on businesses.

Among the next callers is the majestic 312 guest five-masted Wind Surf, (well worth viewing!) when due at the harbour on 29th June. Notably, the 143,000 tonnes Britannia, P&O Cruises’ largest ever ship and built exclusively for the UK market - and which made a Spring debut - is due offshore Dun Laoghaire in July.

TALLSHIPS:

A pair of beautiful tallships under sail graced Dalkey waters on 28th May. They were the Irish flagged ketch Spirit of Oysterhaven that headed down Dalkey Sound while Dutch rigged brig Morgenster had sailed from Gloucester Docks on the Severn, once a trading port with Dalkey.

In fact, despite conflicting directions, both were bound for the annual Dublin ‘Riverfest’ where a small gathering of tallships opened for visitors on the June Bank Holiday weekend.

SWIMMING AROUND IRELAND:

A duo of seasoned worldwide adventurers began a four-month swim around the entire island of Ireland, having set off from Coliemore Harbour on 3 June.

The intrepid pair, Maghnus Collins from Limerick and David Burns from Coleraine began the first 20km stretch of a gruelling 1,600km clockwise swim to be completed in Dublin during September. They hope to raise funds for the RNLI and Gorta Africa.

DALKEY TIDY TOWN GRAFFITI UPDATE

Just a short note to update you on our ongoing Graffiti Project in Dalkey.

We have now completed presentations on Graffiti to the children in St Patricks, Harold Boys and Loreto Schools and have been invited to make this an annual programme which is encouraging. Judging by the response from the teachers and students, they appreciate the message which we are trying to present.

We also made a presentation to Irish Rail here in the Heritage Centre last month and had a very useful meeting. I have copied their Bob Love, Joy Murray, Tom Hayes, Liam Murphy and Jacqui Rogers above. Our concern is that the serious Graffiti damage now visible along the Dart line from Howth to Bray is leaking from the rail tracks and Stations into our neighbourhoods. Irish Rail are facing a substantial future Graffiti removal cost and again it is encouraging to know that they see this as a priority. Thankfully, Irish Rail have now identified this as a major concern and we hope to see details of their action plans this year. We will support them here in Dalkey as best we can.

Below you will see a slide which highlights the shocking annual costs involved in cleaning the Graffiti mess in some other countries. Few seem to realise what the Taxpayer has to cover for this every year. At an annual contribution of just €490k, clearly Dublin is not as committed as some other cities as can be seen in many downtown areas. A sum of about €30 million each year seems to be what is required elsewhere!!!

Overall, our joint actions of our volunteers of the past year are proving to be effective even though we are cleaning off tags almost every day - 16 here in the past week ! We would like to thank all who have given their support to make the improvement to date possible. With the School Holidays now on the horizon, the damage is likely to increase again and we are working on a plan with DLRCC for this.

Since launching our ADOPT MY STREET programme in Dalkey, we are also getting much valued support from our neighbours. Over the past three months, we have seen a 54 per cent reduction over that same period last year. Two particular vandals are active at the moment using the tags ATN, ATW and FIK and we think we have identified the culprits and will pass the details to Garda Cathy Burke for action. As ever, any updates which you can provide will be much appreciated.

Our good friend Shu Wai Tung at DLRCC is scheduled to move to other DLRCC activities shortly and will be replaced by Sinéad Riddick. Shu Wai has done a great job over the past year in supporting our efforts and this we greatly appreciate. He and I and Sinead have already done a tour of the Dalkey Graffiti black-spots and we are working on a Summer Plan to counteract the likely School Holiday upsurge. I see from the Newspapers this week that DLRCC is also becoming more concerned about this ongoing cost which in our experience is being caused by a small number of individuals. As ever, your help in taking action against them will make an impact.

It's always nice to see red squirrels on Dalkey or Killiney Hills and this particular morning in late May we'd already got very excited after seeing one individual but it headed off in a hurry, throwing itself from branch to branch and eventually disappearing into the leaf canopy. We continued up the hill then Lucy spotted another red then realised there was a pair together in a big larch tree, chasing each other around the trunk. We assembled a delighted little crowd around us as we pointed out the reds to them till the squirrels moved up into the denser branches. We made our way to the cafe, very happy with our sighting. I figured we'd filled our quota of squirrel sightings for the day and we couldn't complain but we thought we'd try again on our return journey so approached the same big larch. They were still there and as we watched one squirrel perched on the fork of a branch while the other circled the trunk, approached the sitting one then as we watched they actually mated. Afterwards they crouched together against the trunk and the male rested a front paw on the female's back in what looked like a very tender gesture. It was wonderful to witness but then Lucy drew my attention to something I hadn't noticed. Neither of the squirrels had earclips which meant they must be squirrels born last year and not previously captured and recorded by the researchers who monitor the project, very encouraging news for the future of red squirrels on the hill.

I mentioned last month this is the twentieth year of the Dalkey Tern Project. The project has experienced various fortunes over the years and after initial great success in establishing a breeding colony of Roseate Terns, alongside the Common and Arctic terns already nesting there, we had a succession of horrendous summers with north easterly storms washing away tern chicks and eggs. After no roseates in 2013 a pair nested there last year but for reasons unknown the nest was abandoned with eggs still in it.

Anyhow the arctic and common terns still come to nest on the rock so every year we take out small stones for the birds to use as nest material, the previous year's stones probably having been washed down into pools and gulleys. The birds only arrived in the last week in May and the weather had been too bad to get out so it was on the Saturday of the June Bank Holiday we made plans to go out. Luckily for us Ken, the Dalkey Island ferryman, was very agreeable to take us out.

In recent years we'd gone out in Stephen Newton, BirdWatch Ireland's senior seabird officer's inflatable. The boat, though handy for wedging in between rocks to land, had its best years well behind it and the fact it needed constant re-inflating wasn't too reassuring. So, in the comparative luxury of Ken's boat with 60 kilos of gravel, four new nest boxes, big chunks of stone to weigh them down with and the four of us we crossed over on a lovely sunny morning.

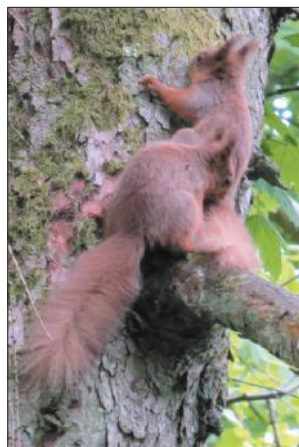

I'd seen the first terns there the previous Tuesday, already mating and courting, the male birds offering sandeels to the females. Stephen had predicted they might already have eggs even after just five days and sure enough after landing he had a quick scan and came back to tell us to be careful where we stood since some birds had already laid. The eggs would stay warm in the sunshine for a while but we didn't want to delay too long keeping the parent birds off their clutches. We spread the gravel and weighed down the new boxes watched by a pair of curious seals swimming a few yards off the rock and dozens of terns wheeling and calling overhead. We kept spotting new clutches and a final count of the eggs revealed 25 nests. No roseates so far but hopefully the commons and arctics will have a good season.

BirdWatch South Dublin Branch members will be on hand with telescopes at the viewing area at Coliemore for seabird watching every Tuesday in July from 6.30 to 8.00pm.

The following day coming through the woods on Killiney Hill we came across another recently fledged family of Treecreepers. When these delightful little birds leave the nest they crouch motionless, often in bunched groups of four and five against tree trunks where the adults will bring food to them. There was still an active Treecreepers nest in a piece of dead wood on a big beech tree where the parents were still bringing food but we'd come across at least two, possibly three other Treecreeper families whose young had already left the nest. Although very small birds and often overlooked as they move upward pressed against tree trunks they have lovely plumage, snow white on the underside and lovely mottled subtle browns on the back, perfect camouflage when the bird is against a tree bark. Their curved bill, designed to pick out insects and their eggs from tiny cracks on the tree, is possibly the thinnest bill of any of our bird species.

We were making our way to see if the other Treecreepers were bringing food to the nest in the beech tree when we stopped short as the most distinct of bird calls echoed through the woods, a cuckoo! We followed the calls but couldn't see it. Almost every year a cuckoo arrives and calls on Dalkey or Killiney Hill for just a day or two but I certainly wasn't expecting to hear one this late, the last day of May. We headed on and were walking round the Hill above the Vico when on the top of Dalkey Hill that unmistakable, long tail and hawk like pointed wings silhouette of the cuckoo flew above the Monterey Pines. Last year it had been calling near the same area not far from the aircraft beacon. Could it have thought that area of high ground was potentially somewhere a meadow pipit might nest and provide a home for the cuckoo's offspring? A couple of decades ago a meadow pipit did display in the area, singing as it rose up beside the Telegraph Tower, but I don't think it ever nested and I haven't seen any around there since but presumably the cuckoo instinctively knows the type of habitat its host species might nest in.

The latest issue of the Irish Wildlife Trust's quarterly magazine has a very disturbing report which states that 'scientists tracking badgers using GPS as part of ongoing TB vaccination trials have inadvertently highlighted the number of badgers being kidnapped for badger baiting in which badgers are placed in a ring to be pitted against dogs as people watch for gory 'entertainment'. The badgers being monitored were transferred rapidly over large distances indicating motorised transport before turning up dead.' It's not bad enough that the badgers are torn apart by savage dogs but apparently the 'baiters' often 'restrain or injure the badger (removing teeth and/or claws, cutting hindleg tendons) to minimise injury to the dogs'.

ASK THE PHARMACIST – Part 6

Q. I suffer from dry patches of skin behind my elbows and knees which can sometimes be very red and sore. A friend mentioned I could have Eczema or Psoriasis. What do you think?

A. Eczema is an inflammatory condition which can affect any part of the skin, including the face, but the area's that are most commonly affected are the joints at the elbows and knees, as well as the wrists and neck. The skin in these areas becomes red and dry, and itching is common. When a flare up is severe, the skin may be moist and blistery.

Because it is prone to drying out and is easily damaged, skin with eczema is more liable to become red and inflamed on contact with substances that are known to irritate or cause an allergic reaction. This can happen due to irritants (for example tobacco smoke, chemicals, soaps, shampoos, washing powders, cosmetics, toiletries, alcohol, astringents, and fragrances), allergens, food, stress, infections or teething in babies.

It normally starts in the first few months of life but can develop in adulthood.

Psoriasis occurs when the immune system rapidly produces new skin cells which cause the outer layers to thicken and results in flaky red patches to form on the elbows, knees and scalp but can affect any other parts of the body. Simply put the average person renews their skin every 28-30 days while a person with psoriasis renews their skin every 2-3 days.

Psoriasis is normally a condition which runs in families. It is not contagious or infectious and a flare up may be triggered by infection, injury to the skin, certain medications and lifestyle factors.

From what you have described it sounds as if you might be suffering from Eczema rather than Psoriasis but I would suggest calling to your local Pharmacist and asking them to take a look. They can also recommend appropriate treatment options for you.

Treatment for eczema can involve short term use of steroids to clear the flare up but long term management of eczema should be done using emollients to wash and moisturize the skin which then maintains a good skin barrier and helps to prevent a flare up. Your Pharmacist will be able to discuss the many different types of emollients on the market and how they should be used.

If you have any questions you would like answered please email us on maxwellpharmacydalkey@eircom.net and put 'Dalkey Newsletter' in the message subject line.

The idea of the Garda Clinic is to assist the local community who may not be able to travel to the Garda Station with matters such as form stamped/signing or any community policing matters which arise. The Garda Clinic is not designed for crime reporting, however, the Gardaí are very keen that all suspicious activity is reported to them at the local centres which, for Dalkey is Dun Laoghaire Tel: 01-666 5000.

The next Clinics for Dalkey residents will take place on Thursday 9th July from 11am to 12pm and Thursday 23rd July from 11am to 12pm in Our Lady's Hall, Castle St., Dalkey

Harold Boys in Santry

Long Distance Athletics with Franco Georgescu – As part of our sports programme 6th class trained in Long Distance Athletics at the Dalkey United grounds. We trained once a week with Franco Georgescu. He split us into groups of six with the fastest leading out. We all had time targets to aim for and we had great fun trying to achieve them. Many thanks to Franco for all the time he gave us.

Liam Molloy

Seán O’Gormáin League – 5th & 6th class in Harold Boys’ N.S. competed in the Seán O’Gormáin League against Harold Glathule. We played two of three matches, the last game on May 28th. As we won both games we didn’t have to play a third time. We were delighted to win back the shield!

Liam Molloy

Harold Boys’ N.S. T-Shirt Design – It’s a Harold Boys’ N.S. tradition that 6th class design a t-shirt. And this year is no different! The winning design was by Luke Thomas, Liam Molloy, Rory O’Neill, Jake McCarthy, Liam Prior and John Maguire. We look forward to wearing our t-shirts and thanks to the Parents’ Association for arranging it, especially Ms. Anne O’Neill and Ms. Maura Murphy.

Cedric Bueno and Diarmuid Ó’Suilleabháin

Santry Athletics – On 3rd June, boys from our school took part in the Cumann na mBunscol Athletics in Morton Stadium, Santry. We ran in the sprint and relay events. Although we didn’t bring home any medals, we had a great day.

Special thanks to Ms. O’Carroll for coaching us and arranging it.

HAPPY RETIREMENT

Dalkey Community Council is sad to learn that Seán McDermott is retiring. Seán who is a native of Roscommon has spent over fifty years of his life in Dalkey. During this time he has been a very active person in our community. He was one of the founding members of Dalkey Community Council and worked in many different positions in the organisation. In the early days he was very involved in producing the Newsletter and preparing it for distribution. He served on many committees and was always very willing to help whenever necessary. In addition to his many activities he was a Collector in the Church of the Assumption. In all the years Seán was very generous with his time and was always very willing to do whatever he could to help others. We thank Seán for all he has done during his long years of service and our good wishes go with him.

WHAT IS POETRY?

Fourth class pupils, in Form IVP, at Castle Park School have some suggestions:

Poetry is your heart and mind synchronising in their greatest moments – Alex

It is a moonlit garden with waves crashing on to sand – Rachel

Poetry is like a shooting star glinting through the night, about to burst into light – Ben

Poetry is like playing with your dog in a lake with gentle ripples on a summers day or riding bare back through the crashing waves of the ocean blue – Robyn

It is way to drive your own car of creativity, there is no limit, you can never be stopped – River

Poetry is pancakes and maple sy-rup, it makes me cheer up! It makes you feel like jumping in a rocket and blasting to the moon – Evan

Poetry is carrots that grow on trees and apples coming out of the ground – Nuwan

Poetry is your heart skipping, while you are sipping the most incredible drink of... – Luke

It is a blossom tree rustling in the wind, a stroll on the beach at sunset, doing your favourite thing on a Sunday morning, it is a watercolour art spoken – Amelie

Poetry is a blood red poppy dancing with the wind, your thoughts in your head – Mackenzie

A way to make you so small self feel as large as life, it makes you feel like a bird flying through the Amazon – Elys

A way to forget all of your worries and to be free, free as can be. It is a seagull gliding through the air or a boat sailing through the deep blue sea – Hugo

Is heaven on earth, meeting God in the local supermarket, a beautiful field with dying grass – Patrick B

Poetry is a mountain that only you can climb, a mighty dragon that only you can tame, an ice cream sundae that grows back when you finish – Patrick H

Can be you, or poetry can be me and your soul is the key – James

Your mind taking control, it is life written on paper, the sea fading into the mist – Flora

Your heart dancing to the music, a world with no boundaries, a blossom tree blowing in the wind – Charlie
Delicious like a blueberry pie, poetry is forever like the vast blue sky – Conor

Poetry is the sun with a top hat, cotton clouds that you can eat, an elephant going through a fairy door – Grace

Poetry is galloping across a field of clouds, with the wind blowing in your face – Millie

Lustau

Jerez De La Frontera Part 2

This month's issue brings us back to the impressive Lustau Bodega in Jerez De La Frontera, Spain. This traditional Bodega has thick white washed walls and high ceilings. Windows are high up on the walls pointing towards the cooling Pontiente winds, which help to maintain a cool temperature. Unfortunately, few of these traditional Bodegas remain and are being replaced by far less picturesque industrial buildings with air conditioning. The old town in the heart of the city is far more beautiful than its industrial skyline surrounds.

The production of Sherry is complicated to say the least. The grapes are fermented in stainless steel vats but aged in oak barrels. The barrels are treated so the oak has no impact on the sherry inside and are used only to allow the transfer of oxygen. The barrels are stacked to make its famous system of maturation called the Solera system (see picture). Each barrel level is called a Criadera and the bottom barrel is the Solera. There can be as many as fourteen Criaderas. The Solera (bottom barrel) is the finished product but not fully emptied each time and is then filled by wine from the level above. The youngest wine (Saca) enters the top Criadera, this process of extraction from the Solera happens several times in a year. It is impossible to tell the age of the resulting Sherry as it is a blend of many vintages, it is only possible to give an approximate age.

Miguel our guide directed us to the tasting room after a full tour of their large Bodega. I was not sure what to expect as I only had bad memories of dry Sherries previously. We started with the driest- Amontillado "Los Arcos" Solera Reserva, it had a distinctive nutty aroma and had a hint of smoke and raisins. Miguel recommended we try this Sherry with roasted almonds to appreciate it fully. I was not fully convinced that I had a taste for Sherry at this point but as we moved along the Sherries became sweeter and my palate more accepting. My favourite Sherry was Lustau's "Moscatel Emilin". It had more appealing dried fruit flavours but still held its nutty complexity. Miguel, a lover of the sweeter Sherries himself suggested I pair this with blue cheese. And so after a lovely day at Lustau I headed out into the sunshine with a bottle of Moscatel Emilin underarm and made my way to the nearest Cheese shop.

New Principal Appointed

The Board of Management is happy to announce that Mrs Jennie Kirwan will succeed Mr Philip Salter as principal of St. Patrick's National School. Jennie currently teaches Junior and Senior Infants, and has been a teacher in St Patrick's since 2004. The Board wishes Jennie all the very best for her years as principal and promises their continued encouragement and support to her as she seeks to take up her new position.

NEWS FROM SHARAVOGUE JUNIOR SCHOOL JUNE 2015

Collecting our flag from the Helix

The Summer term is always one of our busiest times of the year. Our sports day was a great success and there was a great team spirit on the day. Many congratulations to all the children who participated. Our Junior School classes have enjoyed their school tours to Lullymore Heritage Park in Kildare and Tick Tock Farm in Arklow.

Two of our senior boys went with our principal Betty Allen to the Helix Theatre in Dublin City University to collect our Second Green School Flag for energy awareness. Our Flag Raising Ceremony took place on Wednesday 10th June and the classes were all very busy preparing for this exciting event. We were delighted to welcome Ireland and Leinster Rugby player, Ian Madigan, to raise our flag on the day.

Oh! How Television (and Radio) has changed over the years.....

BT Sports has announced the launch of Europe's first 4K (Ultra HD) channel, with the first broadcast due on August the 2nd. The telecom giant's programming is set to make the channel the home of European football, including Barclays Premier League, the FA Cup, and Aviva Premiership Rugby. However current 4K television screens may not be compatible with the new system, and viewers wishing to watch the channel will have to invest in the very latest screens and a BT TV Ultra HD box. According to Sky's chief engineer it's not clear yet which televisions will be compatible with the system, as current 4K televisions only support 25 frames per second, and BT will be broadcasting 100 FPS.
